

VOXWARE ANNOUNCES VOICE SOFTWARE TO SUPPORT NEW SYMBOL WT4000 SERIES OF MOBILE COMPUTERS

Solution Voice-Enables the WT4000's Hands-Free Functionality in Extreme Environments

LAWRENCEVILLE, NJ — October 10, 2006 –Voxware, Inc. (Nasdaq: VOXW), a leading supplier of voice-driven logistics solutions, today announced that Symbol Technologies' newly introduced WT4000 series of mobile computers has been certified by Voxware to run Voxware's VoiceXML browser, VoxBrowser™. VoxBrowser enables Symbol's new wearable mobile computers to utilize voice as a powerful, integrated mode for hands-free logistics operations in demanding environments.

VoxBrowser is part of Voxware's family of open, standards-based software solutions for logistics that includes Voxware's flagship VoiceLogistics Pro™ software toolkit for logistics solutions providers. With its most recent release of VoiceLogistics Pro 2.0, integrators and warehouse management system providers are able to create powerful, flexible voice logistics solutions as an integral part of their overall applications.

"Symbol's new wearable mobile computers offer multi-modal functionalities for high-performance, hands-free operation in the most demanding environments," said Brian Viscount, vice president of mobile computing, Symbol Technologies. "Partners like Voxware complement our mobile computing offerings with optimized voice solutions for increased productivity and improved operational efficiencies."

Tom Drury, Voxware CEO, stated, "VoxBrowser can quickly and effectively enable a powerful new mobile computer like the WT4000 to deliver voice, alone or in combination with other functionalities, in new ways that significantly enhance the WT4000's effectiveness and expand its opportunities for adding value. As the range and power of voice increases, Voxware makes it easy for resellers, integrators and Warehouse Management System providers to use voice to expand what they can deliver to their customers. The release of the WT4000 series marks not only an opportunity for them to provide their customers with a significant new mobile computer, but also to powerfully deliver the added value of voice, whether alone or in conjunction with the many other capabilities offered by the WT4000. Voxware software offers the means for them to create their own applications that fully leverage the breadth and depth of the WT4000 Series."

Voxware's VoxBrowser software to voice enable the Symbol WT4070 mobile computer is immediately available.
